

Strategic Youth Minister Sports Specialist- £23-24k plus pension

Combine youth work, ministry and sport, and study for an MSc!

An exciting opportunity exists to be involved in leading and developing Sports Ministry amongst young people in rural Gloucestershire whilst potentially studying part-time for an MA in Sport and Christian Outreach.

PSALMS is an ecumenical charity, set up in 2005 in the Stroud area to provide both youth and children's ministry. PSALMS current employs two Sports Ministers (for youth) and a Scripture Union Associate Children's worker. We are seeking a further Sports Minister to build strategically on the exciting platform and to develop the Sports Outreach work in partnership with local churches.

To ensure effective and appropriate professional development, we will encourage, and arrange payment for, the successful candidate to register on the MA Sport and Christian Outreach programme at the University of Gloucestershire. An excellent salary package will also reflect the importance of this role.

The successful applicant to this position will have a passion for evangelism and discipleship among young people through sport and the Bible. In addition to this, they will have the expertise and necessary ability to lead strategically through volunteers and paid youth workers and to build teams.

Other information: The salary for this role will be based on JNC levels 14 to 17, depending on professional qualifications and proven expertise. The expected start date will be in September 2009.
