A brief history

The company was set up in 1995 as a co-operative and has built up a solid portfolio of cleaning contracts throughout the Bristol area, including office buildings, church halls and a theatre and is now looking to secure new contracts.

Andrew Wilson, who has a learning disability and is a director at A Clean Sweep, comments: "It is great to have a job and earn my own money. By working for A Clean Sweep, it is a chance for people with a learning disability to be part of their community and make our own choices."

A Clean Sweep is owned and controlled by the people who work for it. They work together to make decisions on how their business operates, including working times, wages and holidays. Any profit is reinvested in the cooperative to ensure sustainability.
